Job Description:

Swiss Re is a market leader in the weather and energy derivative business. Firms use these products to manage their exposure to weather and to commodity price risks created by unplanned outages, a common operational risk in the power industry. In particular, Energy companies hedge demand uncertainty with weather products.

The team currently is staffed with senior and junior originators with a mandate to increase new business development activity and upgrade the quality of client pitches. This requires preparation of customized presentations and analysis of deal and transaction ideas. Specific responsibilities include:

- Organize and maintain team marketing materials
- Prepare transaction analysis under the direction of the client originators
- Analyze client needs for hedging products based on clients' public disclosure
- Prepare presentations for client calls and meetings
- Conduct research in support of team strategy development
- Provide administrative support for client events

Program Details:

Every year, Swiss Re offers internships to a number of bright and highly motivated students, enabling them to benefit from the company's global perspective and to discover the world.

A Swiss Re internship can be much more than a temporary job - it can be your first step to a rewarding career.

The program is expected to last 10 - 12 weeks, offers competitive salaries, and is offered in different Swiss Re locations.

Requirements:

- In the Junior year of an undergraduate program
- Exceptional academic performance
- Highly motivated with an ability to work in a collaborative environment
- Strong analytical and quantitative skills
- Excellent written and verbal communications skills, especially of complex solutions.
- Ability to sustain high level of work output and meet very tight deadlines.
- Independent thinking and creative problem solving skills
- Advanced Excel, PowerPoint and good computer aptitude is also required.
